PSALM 40 Word-Find

See if you can find all the words that are in CAPITALS. Use the left over letters to fill in the blanks at the end.

I have WAITED, waited for the LORD, and He stooped TOWARD me and HEARD my cry. And He put a new song in my mouth, a hymn to our God.

SACRIFICE or OFFERING You wished not, but EARS OPEN to OBEDIENCE You gave me. HOLOCAUST or sin-offerings You sought not; then I said, "Behold I COME."

"In the WRITTEN scroll it is prescribed for me, to do Your will, O my God, is my DELIGHT, and Your law is WITHIN my HEART!"

I announced Your JUSTICE in the vast assembly; I did not restrain my lips, as You, O Lord, know.

Some members of the Catholic book club at Holy Infant Parish in Orange gather at the church for their bimonthly discussion.

WOMEN'S BOOK CLUB EXPLORES THE CATHOLIC FAITH

When Margaret Siena was in third grade, one of her favorite books was an illustrated Little Book of Saints for children, with stories about young women like St. Agnes and St. Cecilia.

"I could read it again and again and again," she recalls. "It was entertaining and informative and spiritual."

Now, as president of the Women's Guild of Holy Infant Parish in Orange and coordinator of its recently formed Catholic book club, she uses those same criteria in her search for reading material that will inspire the group spiritually, entertain them and inform them.

Since it began last year, participants have read several books, including The Story of a Soul, St. Thérèse of Lisieux's autobiography; Up from Dust, historical fiction about St. Martha of Bethany, sister of Mary and Lazarus; and Hills of Moab, a novel based on the Old Testament Book of Ruth, about a Moabite woman who married an Israelite and became an ancestor of King David. "The goal of the Women's Guild book club is to offer enjoyable, inspirational reading while deepening our faith," Siena says. "Its focus is on woman saints, women of the Bible and Catholic women authors."

The bimonthly discussions are led by Donna DiMassa of St. Raphael Parish in Milford, who also leads a mystery book club at Case Memorial Library in Orange.

DiMassa began a recent meeting with a prayer she wrote that invokes the Holy Spirit: "Holy Spirit, we pray that through this newly formed Women's Guild book club, we come to know and understand you better and that we learn better how to serve you in our day-to-day lives. When we are reading the selections, help us to see the work through your divine lens so that we glean the lessons that you want to teach us. Lastly, when we are discussing the selections, let us learn at least one thing that will help us love you better and bring us ever closer to you."

Siena, who has been president of the Guild for more than a year, is committed to sponsoring activities that engage members in small groups. A lifelong reader, she searches for books that will be compelling to the women. Her research entails perusing reviews, looking at lists of popular books and talking to avid readers. "I find myself spending a lot of time searching for the right book," she says. "Not just the right book, but the right book from a Catholic perspective that will appeal to women."

She also believes that historical fiction based on Bible stories will offer an entertaining introduction that can entice readers to further biblical study. The discussions have been enjoyable for the women, who can relate to the experiences of characters like Ruth and St. Martha of Bethany.

Siena has always enjoyed historical fiction, especially stories about the role of women during World War II, and works of history that are accessible to a general reading public and not entirely academic. "I have a curiosity about a lot of things, and I like to read because I can get into the characters," she says.

Father Norman Brockett, pastor, praises the initiative. "It provides a great opportunity for women to develop spiritually, while engaging in discussions about issues that are timeless and also relevant to them," he says.

Most of all, Siena wants the club to be enjoyable and not have the members feel as if they are reading for a class assignment. "We're not theologians," she adds. "I just want the women to appreciate the beauty of the Catholic faith."

THE PASTOR'S CORNER

"Building Bridges to Christ" a vision that we inaugurated when I first came here back in June 2025 and is very much at the forefront of where we are heading. I believe it is important to come back to this point because it provides us with a direction and vision of where we are heading. Over the course of these past few weeks and a few weeks following, we have been presented with the question "What are you looking forward to?". This helps us to steer away from the 'ideas' of New Years Resolutions in order for us to envision where we are going in life and what we want to accomplish this year.

However, the 'building bridges' idea, although broad, presents us with different and unique opportunities to evangelize the Gospel to all whom we encounter in our Parish and elsewhere. Isaiah in our First reading writes, "You are my servant, Israel, through whom I show my glory. Now the Lord has spoken who has formed me as his servant from the womb, that Jacob may be brought back to him and Israel gathered to him..." It is important in our day and age to realize that the Jewish People still are the 'Chosen People' of God as He has claimed them as His own since the Old Testament. However, Jesus establishes the New Israel, of which we, the Baptized Faithful are all a part of. In hindsight, we are the servants through whom Jesus reveals His glory, most especially in the Eucharist. Thus, by virtue of our service to the Lord, we are indeed 'bridge builders' building the one Bridge to Jesus Christ.

St. Paul in our Second Reading presents us with the beginnings of his ministry in establishing the Church in Corinth. St. Paul, as the missionary Apostle to the Gentiles- the Corinthians and the rest of the Western World, becomes a model and example for us of being 'chosen servants'. We each in our own day and age encounter people that are like the Corinthians- ignorant of knowing God, people who choose to stick in their 'old ways' and are not ready to move on, etc.... However, like St. Paul, we are called to change their minds and form them to understand their identity also as servants of God, but even more so their worth in the Kingdom of God. When John the Baptist, in our Gospel announced the presence of "the Lamb of God" people of that time began to wonder who this was John was testifying to. John's witness of the Spirit descending upon Jesus, as is mentioned, identifies Jesus as being the Son of God confirms the fulfillment of the peoples expectations of the coming of the Messiah. John was a bridge builder, but to the extent that he bridged the Old Testament to the New Testament; and it was St. Paul who bridged the New Testament to what the Church is today.

Now is the time for us my friends to build the one Bridge to Christ. As Biblical time from the Old to the New to the Now is revealed, it is up to us to Bridge the 'now' to the future coming of the Kingdom. Let us think on how we can build bridges of relationship in our own lives today, and in doing so build the bridge to Christ so that we can all be bridge builders to the Kingdom of Heaven for all peoples.
